General plan review hot issue in Upland

By Lynne Locke

If last week's City Council meeting is any indication, a recommendation that the city review its general plan will be a hotly contested item at the Nov. 17 meeting when the council holds an informal public hearing on the

One council member has already stated opposition to a proposed environmental impact report (EIR) on the present general plan.

The Upland Citizens for Quality Living in Juen asked the council for a review of the general plan and a development moratorium in the northwestern section of the city.

City Manager Lee Travers said the city staff recommends a study of the general plan to update school information and park policy and to include additional considerations now required by the state.

The review would begin in early 1977 because of the amount of information to be gathered before the initiating of the review, he said.

The city staff and city attorney also recommend hiring an outside consultant to complete an environmental impact report of the total general plan, Travers said. Such an EIR would cost an esitmated $6,800- $7,500.

Travers said the EIR would "underscore" problems caused by the present density patterns, simplify EIRs for proposed zone changes, provide a standard for consideration of specific developments, and provide valuable input for a general plan review.

Councilman Hal Bailin opposed an EIR on the present general plan as a waste of money since the city is considering revising the general

Other council members declined to discuss the issue until the Nov. 13 meeting. Councilman George Gibson, who was absent last week, had asked members to defer action until he could take part.

Dr. Robert Oyler, speaking for Upland Citizens for Quality Living, said he was "very concerned about the 1978 target date" for completing the general plan review and asked the council to complete the review "immediately, within one fiscal

Since the citizens group first asked the council to study density, Oyler said, the city has approved rezoning for an average of 15-20 acres per month.

By the end of 1978 land completion of the general plan review, the city will have rezoned 420 acres in "entirely too dense a manner," he Oyler also questioned the city's concept of the cumulative effects of development. Five multiple-family residential tracts may have more than five times the impact on surrounding areas and services, he

In other action last week the council:

-Awarded a $7,219 contract to Whitney Tractor Co. of Riverside to provide a John Deere tractorloader. The city will receive a $400 trade-in allowance from the present tractor-loader.

-Awarded landscaping maintenance contract to K.A. Gregg Co. of Upland. Maintenance of landscaping in median islands and service road dividers will cost $1,200 per month.

-Authorized a final payment of $835 for Upland's share of transportaiton service provided by the Southern California Rapid Transit District (RTD) before it was replaced by the West Valley Transit Service Authority

-Postponed to the Nov. 3 meeting appointment of a citizen advisory committee to advise the council on projects funded under hte federal Community Development Act to improve the urban environment in

Show features local artists

The third annual Auxiliary Show at Chaffey College's Rex W. Wignall Museum-Gallery Honors auxiliary members for almost 2,000 hours of volunteer work in the gallery, according to director James "Skip"

The unjuried show includes more than 80 pieces in "a rich diversity of styles and media" including woodworking, ceramic sculpture, oils, watercolors, pen-and-ink, and stitchery, Pahl said.

The show features seven pieces by Lech Krahelski, recently deceased. Krahelski, who was a leader in forming the auxiliary, was a truly scientific artist, commented Pahl.

Among the seven works is a drawing that symbolizes free Poland at the time of the communist

The work of the 30-35 artists is arranged in visual groupings so colors and textures react with one another, Pahl said. Local residents represented in the and oil; Billie Lee Mathis, oil; Edward Peltz, watercolor and penand-ink; Lucille Silliman, oil; and Betty Hook, oil. Cucamonga residents are Sandy

Brown, ceramic sculpture; Marion McCallum, ceramics and paper sculpture; and Connie Newton, watercolor

Alta Loma residents are Shirley Bonneville, collage and ceramic sculpture; Emil Schmutz, marquetry; and Millicent Schlegal.

The 225 auxiliary members work once a month at the gallery and host the opening reception for each show. "It's really an honor to show their work and repay them in a small way for their help," Pahl noted.

The auxiliary Show will continue through Nov. 2. The next show scheduled by the gallery will feature working models from Leonardo da Vinci's invention sketchbooks and a 20-minute film showing his role in the Renaissance.

Gallery hours are noon-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, noon-4 p.m. Friday and 2-5 p.m. Sunday. All shows are free.

AUXILIARY ART SHOW - Gallery director James "Skip" Pahl arranges two pieces for the third annual Auxiliary Show at the Rex W. Wignall Museum-Gallery at Chaffey College. "Out of Dante," an oil by Dorothy Palmer of Upland, and "James Earl Jones," a ceramic sculpture by Sandy Brown of Cucamonga, are among more than 80 examples of stitchery, woodworking, drawing, and ceramics by members of the museum-gallery auxiliary. The show, through Nov. 2, honors deceased auxiliary member Lech Krahelski. Gallery hours are noon-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, noon-4 p.m. Friday and 2-5 p.m. Sunday. Foundation provides advice on having dogs, cats altered

West End pet owners may now receive hope from a local chapter of the Pet Assistance Foundation in having their dogs and cats altered. Barbara York of Pomona, who is co-chairman of the local group with Theresa Baker of Cucamonga, said the group will assist pet owners in having their animals spayed or neutered at reasonable rates through the cooperation of veterinarians in general area.

The group has an answering service to advise residents where they can take their animals and approximately how much the operation will cost. Financial assistance is also available in some cases.

The group's phone number is (714) 983-5353. Persons may call from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Satur-

Mrs. York said that persons calling may leave their phone number and a description of their animal. A volunteer of the group will then return the call within a week.

Although the group has only been operating since May, she said that the 12 volunteers have been averaging almost 200 calls per week.

The local organization also undertook a special project at the California Institution for Men in Chino, where cats that have been adopted by inmates were altered and then returned to the prison.

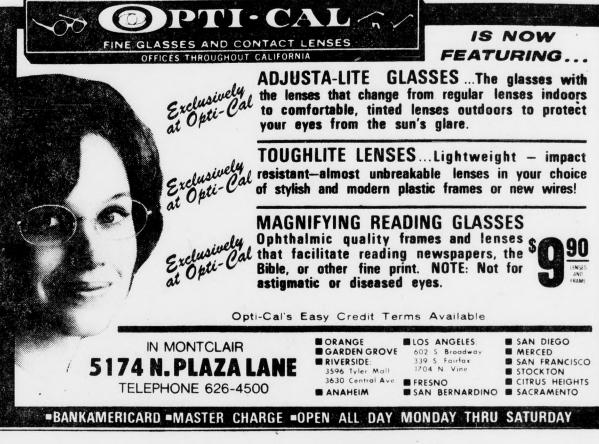

She said that persons are needed as volunteers in the group, and that memberships in the Pet Assistance Foundation are also available.

Membership dues in the national organization is $5, voting membership $7.50, sustaining membership $100.

Upland council oks funding

The City Council last week approved a $5,000 allocation for installation of the Bicentennial flag poles, time capsule and commemorative tiles in the Civic Center.

The Bicentennial Committee, which plans to dedicate the project in connection with George Washington's birthday celebration in February 1976, will raise the additional $4,600 needed to purchase materials.

Councilman Hal Bailin opposed spending city money until the Bicentennial Committee has raised its share. Before approving the expenditure, the council should decide whether the city is ready "to pick up

Optimists elect Cucamonga man as club president

The Ontario-Upland Optimist Club has elected Ray E. Royster as its president for the 1975-76 term. The club held its dinner installation at the Top of Mt. Baldy.

Other new officers are: John Meyer, first vice president; Wally Anderson, second vice president; Sam Smith, secretary; Roy Troupe, treasurer; Harold Rosenblum, sergeant at arms Committee's plans fall through, he commented.

Bailin reminded council members the city previously had to finish construction of a Memorial Park bandstand when the group planning the project had pulled out with the job half-finished.

Other council members approved the expenditure after indicating their belief the Bicentennial Committee will raise the funds necessary to finish the project.

Bailin abstained from voting on the expenditure after saying "Putting out $10,000 to erect four flagpoles doesn't impress me as a lasting memorial to the Bicentennial," no matter who finances the

The flagpole design, including a time capsule and commemorative tiles, fits into landscaping plans already formulated by the city rather than being an extra feature, according to Mike Matlock, administrative specialist.

The flagpole display will be the major focal point for the Civic Center. Preliminary plans had considered a sculpture or fountain for the focus of the mall area.

Sale of the commemorative plaques, $76 each, will finance Upland's Bicentennial activities ranging from historical celebrations to installation of markers at important historical sites in Upland.

Mayor Abner Haldeman noted Upland's Bicentennial Committee is one of the few in California financing its Bicentennial activities without subsidy from the city.

People who purchase commemorative tiles will have their names on the tiles as supporters of Upland's Bicentennial activities.

They also will receive a wooden wall plaque with an old-fashioned design of the Madonna of the Trail. The plaques, by graphic artist Rick Gunst, will be produced in a limited edition of 500 available only to people who purchase commemorative

Motorists and servicemen given Red Cross services

What do a snowbound motorist on Mt. Baldy and a young serviceman stationed in Germany have in common? Both were given emergency assistance by the Chaffey Service Center on the San Bernardino County Chapter of the American Red Cross, one of 32 agencies funded by the West End United Way.

The motorist was among hundreds assisted by Red Cross volunteers a few years ago when a strong snowstorm stranded 360 autos in the Mt. Baldy area for several days. And the young serviceman from Ontario was helped in getting home from Germany to see his newly-born son for the first time.

Mrs. Betty Pruneri, a Red Cross case worker at the Chaffey Service Center at 209 E. I St., Ontario, explained the plight of Spec. 4 Brian Holley who had arranged for a military "hop" from Frankfurt to the U.S. to his firstborn, only to have it cancelled at the last minute.

"He had just enough money to reach Chicago by commercial airline, but needed help to make the final leg to Ontario," Mrs. Pruneri said. "He contacted the Red Cross in Frankfurt, who then contacted us here in Ontario, and we made arrangements to assure that he could get all the way home."

Mrs. Pruneri concluded the story of the reuniting of Brian Holley, his wife, Gina, and his first-born son, Brian Collin. "The thrill and joy of helping people like the Holleys in family emergencies is very rewarding and I'm grateful to be able to perform this kind of service."

"Service to military families tops the Red Cross list," Mrs. Pruneri said, "and through the Red Cross in 30 countries, we can help American serviceman wherever they are."

She explained that between June 1974 and June 1975, more than 1,600 cases involving service families were handled at the Chaffey Service Center, including those involving emergency leaves, family counseling, financial assistance during emergencies and helping servicemen obtain government benefits.

Chartered by Congress to help victims of natural disasters, like floods and earthquakes, the Red Cross is usually the first agency on the scene with clothing, food and shelter. And in the West End, local Red Cross volunteers were the first to respond to the 1969 Cucamonga Creek flood.

But beyond the disasters and emergencies, the Red Cross in Ontario has a wide-ranging program of public service, according to Mrs. Pruneri.

"Water safety, first-aid and mother-baby classes are taught on a regular basis, as well modified home nursing course to help people recognize illness and respond to them," she said. "Our newest program is a blood pressure clinic held every Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Chaffey Service Center."

Conducted by Grace Friedman, RN, and Laurel Johnson, the program is designed to help all people in the West End over 18 years old discover whether they have high blood pressure, an all-too-common ailment.

"Volunteers are the true_heart of the Red Cross program," Mrs. Pruneri said, "and the services they give are enormous."

Among the services are Project Find, which helps elderly citizens determine whether they are eligible for welfare assistance, providing transportation for the blind and disabled, service in hospitals and nursing homes and the thousands of hours of instruction in first aid and water safety (swimming) in the minority neighborhoods which might not otherwise receive them. Red Cross volunteers also set up Montclair's free clinic.

There were also classes taught to 300 persons in the last year to prepare them in methods of temporary and immediate care for disaster victims, as well as an "on-call" registered nurse program to provide professional help in disasters too.

"Not every disaster is a flood or an earthquake," Mrs. Pruneri said. "When a single family's house burns down, it is just a monumental a disaster to them as a major earthquake, and the Red Cross is here to help in taking care of the family's immediate needs."

The number of people in the West End helped by the Chaffey Center Red Cross numbers in the thousands.

Local rider eyes top cycle title

Jeff Sexton of Montclair will be trying for the biggest prize of his young racing career when he faces the very finest speedway motorcycle riders in the U.S. Championships at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, Nov. 1.

Top prize is $8,000 from a $25,000 package, including contingency awards.

Sexton is one of 16 qualifiers for the finals, having finished 15th in the points chase.

Others who have gained the finals include Scott Sivade, Mike Bast, Steve Bast, Bill Cody, Mike Curoso, Dubb Ferrell, Larry Shaw, Bruce Penhall, Sonny Nutter, Rick Woods, Jim Fishback (Fontana), Bobby Schwartz, Rich MacMurray, Alan Christian and Mark Cherry.

Sivadge, a long-haired blond who saved his money from a newspaper route to buy his first motorcycle, wound up the overall point leader in a six-race elimination series that has pared the field to 16 riders.

Second in the standings is Mike Bast, who won national titles in 1971 and 1973, and third is his brother, Steve, 1969 and 1974 champion. Woods, champ in 1968, 1970 and 1972, qualified 10th.

Sivadge, who was speedway's rookies of the year in 1973, has qualified for two previous nationals but hasn't finished well.

Graduate accepted to school

Thomas Gordon Merry, son of Mrs. E. C. Zeitler of Upland and Don W. Merry of Oceanside, was accepted in the fall class in the Loma Linda School of Medicine. Merry attended local schools, graduating from Upland High School in 1968, Chaffey Junior College in 1972 and the University of California Santa Cruz in the spring of 1975 with a B.S. in biology and B.A. in chemistry with honors.

Merry also served in the California Air National Guard, being discharged in 1975 as a staff sergeant weather technician. He also received the Air Force California Commendation for saving the life of a local woman injured in a traffic accident.

Flu shots for elderly

Free flu shots are still available to senior citizens at Ontario Health Center, 1020 W. 6th St., Ontario, through Nov. 21, 1p.m. to 4 p.m. This special clinic is being conducted in cooperation with the Office on Aging and the San Bernardino County Health Department.

For those who missed getting the flu immunization and are 60 years of age or older or have a chronic illness, there will be a special make-up clinic.

Beer tops football cheese dip

Fall, football, food, and beer - they all just sort of go together. Speaking of gotogethers, beer not only goes well with food, but also in food. When you're fixing some snacks to set down in front of the T.V. this season, here are a few suggestions. Tacos with Chili Dip, Tavern Cheese Dip, Beef 'n Beer earn star billing. All three have one thing in common.

They're made with beer! Beer and cheese are long time friends and just naturally go well together. The mellow brew deliciously flavors the cheeses and also the chili dip. Serve the appetizers with mugs of ice cold beer and you'll definitely score with the gang!

Tavern Cheese Dip 1 (4 oz.) packages shredded sharp cheddar

11/2 oz. blue or Roquefort cheese

½ can or bottle beer Let cheeses soften at room temperature for about an hour. With electric mixer, slowly blend cheeses together. Gradually add beer, beating continuously. The amount of beer governs the consistency of the mixture. For a thick spread, add less beer; for a smoother spread, add more beer or blend all together in a blender.

Tacos with Chili Dip

1 (13/8 oz.) envelope dehydrated onion soup 1 cup (1/2 pint) dairy sour cream 1/2 cup beer

½ cup chili sauce

2 tablespoons vinegar Few drops Tabasco 4 packages frozen tacos - quartered Combine onion soup mix with sour cream; stir in beer, chili sauce, vinegar and Tabasco. Chill until ready to serve. Heat tacos according to package directions and cut in quarters.

Serve hot with dip. Beef 'n Beer Rolls

2 ozs. blue cheese

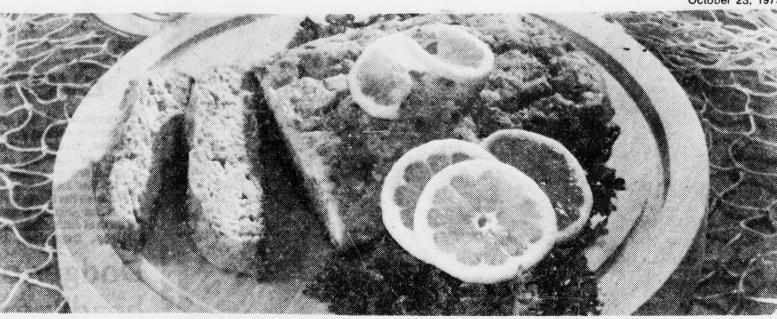

6 ounces cream cheese 2 tablespoons beer

1 package (3 oz.) dried beef or corned beef Cream cheeses together until soft, beating in beer Lay out slices of the beef, spread some cheese mixture on each slice. Roll up. Chill until firm. Cut in bitesized portions with a sharp, thin-bladed knife. Serve on crackers or roast rounds or serve plain. Makes about 40.

Persian apple' still a peach

The versatile "Persian apple" of ancient times has been cultivated and refined but it still makes an excellent dessert. Although its origin was long believed to have been in Persia, the peach as we have come to know it actually has been traced to China. Those grown and eaten in all delightful forms here were developed in this country. No matter the name or origin, peach fanciers find nothing as tempting as a slice of peach pie, with ice cream on the side.

Infants' studied

An infant who gains more than 11.7 pounds during the first six months of life could be obese, according to a recent article in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association.

The article, which contained the results of a study of 450 young children by the School of Public Health at the University of California at Berkeley, also stated that infants with a low birth weight tend to gain more during their first six

The mothers of fat infants tend to be fat themselves. according to the study. Such mothers also have less knowledge about good nutrition, spend less time cooking and enjoy it less, are likely to be single and living an unconventional life style and are more likely to be dissatisfied with their children's eating habits.

The study concluded that mothers of fat babies are less sure of themselves and less accepting of their babies than mothers of lean infants. They also tend to run households that are less regulated.

Many infants in the original study also were examined at one, two, three and four years. It was found that infants who were more active at six months were less likely to become obese at four years.

The findings also suggested that the earlier the introduction of solid food, the greater the chance of obesity and the longer a child is breast fed, the leaner he she will be.

Once an infant begins eating solid foods, the California Dietetic Association recommends using the Four Food Groups - milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals - as a guide to meeting his/her

Pet control through spaying

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M. Manager of Veterinary Services Norden Laboratories

Almost everyone has at one time or another been approached by a friend or neighbor looking for homes for surplus kittens or puppies. Sometimes the search is successful; sometimes the surplus animals end up at the local animal shelter. In the United States last year, animal shelters destroyed about 14 million pets, mainly cats and dogs, because of a lack of homes for them. Often these are animals the owners must get rid of because they can no longer be kept. In addition, an unknown number of unwanted animals are abandoned each year to die of starvation, disease or exposure.

The public is generally unaware of the magnitude of this problem because great numbers of homelss cats and dogs are not usually concentrated at any one time at any one location. But as one homelss animal dies, another unwanted kitten or puppy is born, maintaining the surplus population.

One method or preventing this cruelty to pets begins with preventing the birth of the excess millions. "Neutering," also termed spaying, is the only certain method of preventing animal reproduction.

This operation can be performed on a healthy female animal at any age, but with a younger animal five or six months is considered the optimum age-recovery is more rapid. When done by a skilled veterinary surgeon, it is a relatively simple operation. A general anesthetic is used so there is no pain, and very few animals show any sign of discomfort after the operation.

Many pet owners believe that spaying affects their pet's personality and makes her fat and lazy, but there is no truth to this. There is no evidence that spaying affects the personality of a pet beyond the fact that once the pet loses its interest in the opposite sex - which it does after spaying - it becomes more attached to its human companions.

As for becoming fat and lazy, overweight is due to calorie intake. And, in those instances where pets get fat after spaying, they are simply being fed too much or not exercised enough.

Pet control (Concluded)

Neutered pets make ideal house pets. They are more settled around the house and are less likely to wander off. And, believe it or not, a cat does not need to have kittens to

To cope with the problem, some humane groups are requiring that all pets adopted through a shelter be spayed as a condition of adoption. A few kennel clubs are even considering restricting the sale of unspayed animals to those people who wish to show their dogs or breed pure-bred animals as a business. They are recommending the neutering of any animal purchased for companion purposes. Pet overpopulation and its consequences are only beginning to make an impression of public awareness - prompting more stringent leash laws, and accelerating animal contra eptive research. But the greatest need remains education of the pet owner.

The basic point to remember is that you do your pet no kindness if you encourage the birth of young animals — who will be destroyed in a few months.

You may have the neutering operations performed at the animal hospital of your choice, but you should consult your own veterinarian for more specific

Earlier nightfall means more driving hazards

The Automobile Club of Southern California reminds motorists that in addition to turning the clock back one hour upon retiring Saturday night, Oct. 25 — they'll have to adjust their evening driving habits as

With the close of Daylight Saving

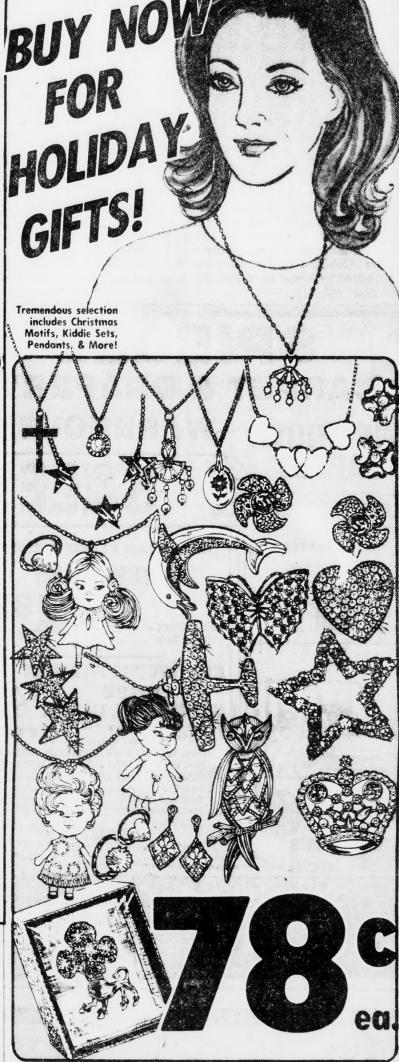

Time, warns Auto Club public safety manager Robert J. Cheney, "many drivers will find themselves returning home from work in the dark." Such nighttime driving conditions, he stressed, "bring the danger of headlight glare through careless use of high beam lights. The darkness also brings increased hazards to children leaving school late in the afternoon, for example, those who have been involved in club meetings, band practice or athletic competition." Darkness brings "decreased visual perception — particularly of dark colors," Cheeney continued. "Pedestrians will be difficult to spot unless they are wearing light or white clothing or have reflective patches on their schoolbooks or

Advice for acne victims

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public ser-

Acne is a disorder that is most commonly thought of as an affliction of teenagers. This skin eruption occurs among 3/4 of adolescents boys and girls alike. It appears most often on the face but can also involve the back, chest, shoulders and

A number of factors contribute to the presence of acne. They include hormones, heredity, oil secretions on the skin, oil applied to the skin, bacteria, emotional stress, sweating, climate and, rarely, foods and drugs.

During adolescence hormonal changes take place within the body, and there is an increase in the production of the oily substances which normally lubricate the skin and hair. This surplus oil may plug the openings of the sebaceous glands. The trapped oil is metabolized by normal surface bacteria and is broken down into irritating new substances which produce the highly inflamed pustules that make acne so unsightly. Acne is usually a temporary disorder, but it should not be neglected as it may leave permanent scars. In addition, in many cases the young patients undergo great emotional stress because the acne develops at a time in their lives when they are very conscious of their appearances. Any program which can alleviate the acne will ease this stress.

Here are some tips for young acne victims:

-An important step you can take is to keep your skin surface free of excess oil. It is recommended that you wash your face carefully with soap and water. If you use a wash cloth be sure that it is not a rough one, and do not rub your face vigorously. Avoid irritating your inflamed skin.

-There are some acne preparations, such as drying lotions, available at your drugstore which may help your condition. Read carefully and follow the instructions on the label

-Girls should limit themselves to non-oily cosmetics, and these should be carefully removed at bedtime. -Don't try to squeeze the acne blemishes on your face since that may result in scarring.

-If you acne condition does not improve as the result of home treatment, you may want to consult a doctor. There are many things a doctor can do to help you control your acne. He may use antibiotics or prescribe lotions. For some patients, ultraviolet light is used; for others, cold substances such as liquid nitrogen. In some cases, the doctor can treat the plugged glands locally and thus relieve the inflamed appearance. How long will it take for you to get over your acne? It depends. Some patients improve much more rapidly than others. If you follow your doctor's instructions the chances are very good that the appearance of your skin will improve.
